Message from Rev. Valerie

May 22, 2026

This Sunday is Pentecost — the coming of the Holy Spirit to the disciples, and the birth of the church.

It's also the final week in our series, An Unfolding Creation.

Over these past weeks, we've been tracing the movement of creation from the formation of stars, into complex life, and then into the rise of consciousness.

This week, we bring it all home to us, now, asking: "What shall we become together?"

In the Pentecost story, people learn to understand one another across differences and languages. In this moment of globally connected humanity, we must learn the same: to cooperate, to listen across differences, and to participate consciously in this unfolding story with compassion instead of power, and kindness instead of greed, if we are to make it through this threshold time.

What is our place in these stories — and in the future of humanity?

Join us Sunday at 10:30 a.m. as we conclude this series together and recognize more graduates.

Please see all the announcements below, as there is still a lot going on at RUC.

Warmly, valerie

IN OUR PRAYERS

- We are grateful that Paul Fung is now recovering at home from his hip surgery after 10 days in hospital. Please keep Paul and Janet and family in your hearts as his healing continues.
- We celebrate with Orië and Gail Windjack as we marry their granddaughter Emily and Cam this weekend at the church.
